

MEN OF ENTIRE NATION ENROLL FOR DRAFT TODAY AMERICA STEPS FORWARD TO DO HER PART TO MAKE THE WORLD SAFE FOR DEMOCRACY

Connellsville Youths Eager to Enroll and Steady Stream of Men Flows to and From Polling Places All Day Long; Much Larger Registration is Likely Here Than Was Anticipated; Foreign Residents are Anxious to Serve Their Adopted Country.

POLICEMEN AT POLLS HAVE NOTHING TO DO

By Associated Press.
America is stepping forward today to do her part in making the world safe for democracy. In every city and town, in the most remote valley hamlet and at the wildest mountain crossroad, 10,000,000 sons of liberty are inscribing their names on the honor roll of the ages, that the free government for which their fathers died may not perish from the earth. White or black, married or single, sick or well, alien or native born—even enemy subjects of the Kaiser—all men between 21 and 31 are expected to present themselves today between 7 A. M. and 9 P. M. for registration. It does not matter that a man for any reason is unfit for army duty; that will be established later. It does not matter that he is not a citizen; every man between those ages is required to register today unless he is already in the military service. To register is not to be drafted; that is another step in the great plan. As each man registers today he will be numbered and at a later time the numbers will be chosen for service by lot.

Whether he has been drawn for the first increment of 600,000 men who probably will be called for training early in September, will be determined later.
After the men have been drafted the question of exemption will come up, to be decided by fair and impartial boards. They will determine whether physical or mental defects deter a man from service, or whether the dependence of others upon him or the country's need of him in civil life make it necessary to exempt him from service.
In the meantime today's duty is registration. The long arm of the federal law is reaching out to seize those who seek to evade this first duty to which all have been called and those who by counsel or luck manage to prevail upon others to shirk it.
While an approximate report of the result of the registration may be published in the morning papers tomorrow, it will be several days before a complete return can be made.

NOT MANY CITY MEN MAKE CLAIM TO BE EXEMPT FROM DRAFT

Registration for conscription began here this morning at 7 o'clock, ushered in by the shrill of whistles and the tolling of bells, and at noon the indications were that far more men than estimated would sign up for the draft before the close of the polls at 9 o'clock this evening.
"Absolutely no trouble," was the report at every polling place. A policeman was on duty at each booth, but he was quite unneeded, and did not, in most cases, know how to put in his time. The registrars have been kept in a rush since early morning, writing the cards, and in practically every ward there have been lines of men waiting to sign up throughout the morning.
The foreign population was especially prominent, and few of the naturalized citizens claimed exemption. One Italian, asked if he wanted to get out of going to war, replied that he was perfectly willing to go to the army. "I wouldn't want to stay home if all the other fellows went," he said.
In fact, there have been very few claims from any of these registrars this morning. Those who do ask to be exempted from military service, do so on the grounds of having dependent wives, mothers, or children. So far, no one has made religious scruples the grounds for an exemption claim.
In the first ward, Richard Davis Towsey was the first man to register this morning. He was at the polling place in Orchard after behind the Smith House before the doors opened, and his card was finished up first of all. William Beatty, who registered yesterday, was really No. 1 in the first. Just 30 men had signed up in the first at 11 o'clock.
There were 76 registered in the second at the same time. First in line was Richard L. Cole.
In the third ward, Christopher Jim was the first to appear this morning. Fred D. Munson, chief registrar, who registered before the polls opened this morning, was No. 1 card. There were 72 cards filled out at this point at 11 o'clock.
In the fourth ward, three men appeared about at the same time and were registered at the same time by the three officials. They were

12 RECRUITS FOR COMPANY D ON EVE OF REGISTRATION DAY

On the eve of Registration Day, recruits for Company D turned out strong. 12 being passed by Major H. S. McKee, the examining officer. The army last evening. All members of the National Guard are exempt from draft and those who were passed last evening did not have to sign up at the registration booths today.
After today any who enlist with Company D who are between the ages of 21 and 31 will have to show their registration cards. No applications will be accepted today. Those who enlisted last night are:
Elmer B. Camper, Connellsville.
Sylvia P. Lawrence, Connellsville.
David R. King, Connellsville.
Samuel R. Reaz, Connellsville.
George H. Messmore, Uniontown.
Charles L. Augustus, Uniontown.
Harold W. Little, Uniontown.
Orville Thorpe, Dunbar.
Alvin D. Gray, Dunbar.
Edwin P. Moore, Connellsville.
Edward O'Laughlin, Gray's Landing.
Adam M. Ross, McClellandtown.
Connellsville led in the recruiting, having four from this place, with Uniontown a close second, three from that place being accepted. Dunbar had two, McClellandtown continued to help increase the roster of the company.

David R. King, who was a corporal in Company D on the border, but whose enlistment has expired, re-enlisted last evening. When his term of enlistment expired he was, under the National Defense act, transferred to the National Guard reserve. From this organization, a man can be transferred to any organization on the active list. King preferred to re-enlist rather than run the risk of being sent to a strange company. Other members of the company, whose terms have likewise expired have re-enlisted so they would be among friends.
The opportunity for a resident of this district to become a member of the command composed of young men from his own neighborhood is steadily decreasing. After the war steadily reached no recruits will be accepted. Others who are drafted will be assigned to companies located at foreign points.

RAYMOND TOWSEY ACQUITTED BY JURY OF LARCENY CHARGE

Local Youth Testified He Spent Years' Savings, Not Stolen Money.
Special to The Courier.
UNIONTOWN, June 5.—Ray Towsey, 23 years old, son of William H. Towsey of Connellsville, was acquitted of a charge of larceny by clerk, servant or employee in a verdict returned by a jury last evening at 6 o'clock. He was accused of stealing $578 from the safe of the Adams Express Company at Dunbar on December 5, he being at that time a clerk for the company.
The prosecution, which was brought by J. C. Bailey, a Pennsylvania railroad detective, tried to prove that Towsey's expenditures between the time of the robbery and his arrest were out of proportion to the amount he had earned while employed by the express company at a salary of $57.70 a month. The youth's defense was that the money he spent represented his savings since he was 12 years old and in this he was corroborated by members of his family. Prominent Connellsville men testified that Towsey bore an excellent reputation in the community.
Martha Donvil of Leipsic No. 1, filed a suit against Steve Stefo for $2,500 damages on capias. The plaintiff alleges slander on February 12, 1917.

CITY HASN'T ANY MONEY TO SPEND REMODELING SCHOOL, COUNCILMAN DUGGAN SAYS

Other Citizens Argue Against Tearing It Down; Board to Think It Over.

Declaring that what was needed by the city was a new police and fire station, and not a municipal office building, Councilman John Duggan last evening told the school board and the citizens who had assembled at its meeting that while he would vote to accept the Fourth ward school should the directors desire to turn it over to the city, he would certainly vote against expending any money toward remodeling it at this time. Captain E. Dunn, who started the agitation directed toward saving the old building, presented his side of the case to the board very ably, emphasizing the statement that if the city could get this building and fix it up for a nominal sum, it would certainly be economical, since it won't be many years before a real municipal building will be needed and one can't be built for less than $75,000 to $100,000.
Captain Dunn said: "We are asking that the board turn over the Fourth ward building to the city for a municipal building. I think I can guarantee that it wouldn't be used for either a police or a fire station, for these would be entirely unsuitable located next to the present high school. The location is a good one, convenient and quiet. The disadvantages of the present building, especially the noise of the railroad which makes all meetings there disagreeable, make it necessary to put up a new city hall in the near future. As taxpayers, we must economize. Because of the war, too, it is best to conserve our resources. This opportunity of converting the old school into a city hall very cheaply is an excellent one, and I think we should take advantage of it. We could use the second story for a community hall, and the lower story for offices. The third story could be taken off."
Mr. Duggan said: "We have two conditions to meet at present. First, we must have a fire station on the East side. You admit that it wouldn't do to have a fire station here. Second, we have at present a lockup that is an abomination. The sanitary conditions are terrible, and should Dr. Dixon happen to come here and inspect it, he would certainly order every prisoner turned loose at once. Now we should meet this condition before we are forced to meet it, and we couldn't put a police station next to a school house. Our plans now are to build a small structure alongside the present city hall, make the old building into a fire station, and use the new one for a police station, mayor's office, and council chamber. The offices in the present building, such as engineer's office, health department rooms, and so on, could continue to be used for a while. Of course, we should have a municipal building but that's in the future. We don't have any money to spend on remodeling the Fourth ward building now when we don't need it, and we do need other things. I really don't see what we can do with the building at the present time."
S. M. Foust, city engineer, said that he had estimated the cost for fireproofing and remodeling the Fourth ward building and putting in a large vault, at $25,000. Mr. Foust said that should the building be torn down, and a playground be made there, and he did not think the site at all suitable for a playground. Furthermore, he said that school board had no more right to the ground than any other public body, since it was dedicated for church purposes, and they should be willing to turn it over to the city.
John Curry, Sr., spoke, along the same lines, and Byron Porter said a few words, endorsing the remarks of Captain Dunn. "There's a little sentiment connected with the first real Connellsville school building, and the idea of preserving it is worthy of consideration," he said. J. M. Doyle remarked that it seemed to him that the city could save money by taking over the building they should certainly do it. The Hurley estate are big taxpayers, he said, and want to keep things down.
Mr. Duggan, in reply to Mr. Porter, said that he didn't mind taking the building for sentimental reasons, but from a business standpoint, he couldn't consent to spend money on it. "Why should we spend $25,000 for an office building which we don't need," he said, "when we can get what we do need, a new police station and an East Side fire house, for less? We certainly want to be economical. That's why we don't want to put money in this Fourth ward building just now. As for building for the future, that doesn't always work. In 10 years this might not be a desirable city hall location at all."
At the request of Captain Dunn and the others, school board consented to hold the matter over and consider it until the next regular meeting.

KEISTER WILL MADE DAY BEFORE DEATH; ESTATE A BIG ONE

Ex-Congressman Leaves Bulk of Fortune to Brothers and Their Children.

Ex-Congressman A. L. Keister of Scotland, who died on May 26, left an estate estimated at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000, although even his personal friends and business associates say they do not know definitely what his wealth was. Mr. Keister's will, framed on May 25, 1917, and probated at Greensburg yesterday, bequeaths the bulk of his fortune to brothers and their children. Albert Keister, B. Franklin Keister and Fenton O. Keister, brothers, are named executors.
Four specific bequests are made in the will, $10,000 each being willed to Donald C. Keister and LeVerna Lechey, $2,500 each to Mary E. Owan and Mrs. Anna K. Seese; $2,000 to Mary E. O'Connor and to B. Frank Keister for use during his life the Keister residence at the corner of Pittsburg and Grove streets, Scotland, with all appurtenances and personal property therein. After the death of B. Frank Keister, the property is to revert to and become a part of the residuary estate.
Clause six in the will bequeaths all of the remainder of the estate to his executors, his brothers, "or the survivor or survivors of them, in trust, to sell and dispose of the same either at public or private sale or sales, and for such prices or prices as to them shall seem best, and to divide the proceeds thereof between my brothers Albert Keister, B. Franklin Keister, Fenton O. Keister, Lawrence Keister and Laddie W. Keister and my nephews and nieces, Alfred H. Miller, Alice M. Rush, Mrs. Ellen M. Clippinger and Mrs. Lucille M. Gerberich, share and share alike.
"As to any stocks or securities which my said executors, or the survivors or survivor of them may see fit to reserve from sale, the same are to be divided among the foregoing named residuary legatees equally, at the current market value thereof at the time of the final distribution of my said residuary estate."
The will is witnessed by Charles H. Loucks and Ben A. Kirtner, both connected with the First National bank of Scotland.

Fred Capatta Killed While Turning Crank of Hoist in Front of Markell Residence.

Fred Capatta, aged 32, an Italian, employed by Louis Pizoli, was instantly killed while turning the crank of a derrick in front of the residence of F. E. Markell on Isabella road about 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, when the wire cable of the hoist came in contact with a heavily charged electric light wire. Capatta was turning the crank. As the derrick swung around to carry a stone into place, the wire cable came in contact and the current was carried downward. Capatta's body completing the circuit to the ground. The man was instantly killed, his body remaining upright at the wheel of the derrick until the current was shut off when it fell to the ground.
Capatta was single and resided on the West Side. He and other stone-masons were constructing a stone wall in front of Mr. Markell's residence along Isabella road.

TWO HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS RESIGN; FOUR ARE ELECTED

Assistant Principal Seawright and R. A. Jenkins, Chemistry Instructor, to Leave.

NEW POSITIONS CREATED

Miss Iva Waterbury to be Female Physical Training Teacher, Miss Mary Gans Chosen Assistant in Domestic Science; Other New Ones.

The resignation of Wilmer H. Seawright as teacher of English and assistant principal in the high school was read at last night's school board meeting. Mr. Seawright has accepted a position in the Schenley high school at Pittsburg. He has been teaching in the Connellsville high school for five years, and was considered one of the most efficient members of the faculty. He has coached the senior class plays each year and has won much praise for that work.
R. A. Jenkins, teacher of chemistry in the high school, has also resigned. Principal B. B. Smith told the board, to accept a position nearer his home in New Hampshire.
Four teachers and two janitors were elected by the directors. Miss Iva Waterbury was chosen female physical training teacher. She will have charge of the gymnasium work of all the girls of the schools. She is a graduate of Vassar and took an extra course in physical training at the New Haven normal school. She taught two years in the colleges of New Haven, Conn. Her salary will be $1,000 a year.
Miss Florence Kimball of Dunbar, who left the local high school, two years ago to teach in Arvon, will come back next year as special teacher. She will have classes in several different studies.

Miss Mary Gans, a local girl who graduates this year from the four year course at Penn State, and has had one year's experience teaching half days in the State College borough school, was chosen assistant domestic science teacher. Her salary will be $75 a month. The position is a new one. Miss Gans is a graduate of the Connellsville high school and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Gans.
Miss Margaret Musser of Millheim, Pa., a sister of Miss Ida Musser, German teacher in the high school, was chosen supervisor of music to succeed Miss Mary Jane Snyder, at a salary of $90 a month. Miss Musser has four years and an extra classical course at Oberlin University, and two years public and private school experience.
The two new janitors elected were Aaron Filtrcraft and Rice Boyd. Just where they will be placed has not been decided upon, and their salaries are to be determined later.

The finance committee reported and recommended the tax collector's request for an exemption on the 1914 budget of $2,415.17, due to such causes as people leaving town, clerical errors and double assessments. The report was accepted by the board.
Questions concerned with the new Crawford school on the West Side will be settled at a meeting of all contractors, architect and school board at the building Wednesday evening, it was decided. Superintendent S. P. Ashe told the board that the serious attention of the board was needed for several matters, since the building was not coming on as fast as it ought to. Contractor Schenck, who offered to carry the sewer around the outside of the building for $175, now makes a price of $233 for putting the sewer inside. The board will look into this before advising Schenck to go ahead.
The old dispute about mastic or tile floors for the building came up again, when two representatives of the Johns-Manville company appeared to state that their material was on the ground. The board wants the floors. The question will be settled finally on Wednesday. The matter of saving $150 by putting in reinforced concrete front steps instead of stone was let rest. The Payette Electric Company of Uniontown offered to put in wiring for the stereopticon at the Crawford building for $42.50. The board will take this matter up on Wednesday.
Blueprints for the concrete steps and walk around the new high school building were inspected and the secretary directed to advertise for bids for the work.
Miss Anna L. Reynolds, domestic science teacher, was granted a permanent specialist's certificate.
In the absence of President J. R. Davidson, Vice President C. Roy Hetzel presided at the meeting. Other directors present were Ormer Woods, W. W. Haines, J. W. Ralston and R. K. Long. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were dispensed with because of the length of the meeting.

To Move to Uniontown.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Smith will move from Morgantown in the near future to Uniontown, having leased the Will Hoggatt house in Ben Lomond avenue. Mrs. Smith was formerly Miss Jean Snyder, a daughter of the late Henry P. Snyder, editor of The Courier.

Registration at 2:30 O'clock.	822.
First Ward	150
Second Ward	142
Third Ward	125
Fourth Ward	118
Fifth Ward	78
Sixth Ward	78
Seventh Ward	81

Nathan Gilmore, David Younklin, and Oliver Jackson. Mr. Gilmore's card was completed first. Charles E. Thomas, who sent in his card some days ago, is really No. 1 in the Fourth. The number registered in this ward by 11 o'clock was 55.
In the Fifth ward, Charles Crowley was the first to register. Up to 1 o'clock, 97 had signed up. One man with a wife and three children would not claim exemption. "With all America's done for me," he said, "it's certainly right that I should now do something for her if she needs me."
Up to 11 o'clock in the Sixth ward, 48 persons had been registered and although there was no rush during the morning the registrars were kept busy. John Richter was the first to register and Joseph Bowytz second. Charles Kluesener was third.
The Seventh ward led the registering on the West Side, having 52 signed up at 11 o'clock. James McCleary was the first man to register, signing up immediately after the doors were opened.

Some men are not answering the twelfth question on the cards. Do you claim exemption? This question is not required to be answered, since the War Department will not rely to a great deal on this answer to decide the merits of exemption cases.
R. De Angelis of P. Bufano's banking force was this morning named by Sheriff T. L. Howard to go around to the registration places with Italians, to see that their names were given in correctly. By calling at P. Bufano's office, Italians can have a paper properly filled out to present to the registrars, so that there may be no mistakes at the polls through misunderstanding.
Supplies for the registrars may be secured at the First ward polling place. Early this morning, it was seen that the 150 cards sent to each ward were not going to be sufficient, and Sheriff Howard sent down more from Uniontown, leaving them at the First ward, where the other registrars may call for them. At the First ward, too, there is a supply of copies of President Wilson's war message, which are being distributed.
Over every polling place there floats a big flag or other patriotic decoration. The entire city is gay with the national colors.
The registrars are using different methods of recording the statistics of the young men. In most wards all three officials are filling the cards constantly. In the Third, however, where Chief Registrar F. D. Munson filled in the numbers and made other preparations yesterday, only Mr. Munson is writing the cards.

ARRESTED FOR SPREADING ANTI-DRAFT PETITION.

James F. Lee, 29 years old, inher of Hanover, was committed to the county jail Monday by Justice John H. Kintner of Perry township charged with circulating a petition tending to hinder registration for conscription. The petition, which, from the notations made at the bottom, is believed to have been written by Lee.

Funeral Services Postponed.

There will be no funeral services this evening for Mrs. Katherine A. Clough as previously announced, the change being made because Rev. E. B. Burgess, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church of which Mrs. Clough was a member, being out of town.

What Billy Sunday Says.
In one of his meetings at Boston the noted evangelist said, "I believe that every disease can be cured by some weed if we can only discover it. There is not an ailment that God hasn't somewhere on herb growing that will cure that ailment."

The choice medicinal herbs which will cure women's ailments were discovered more than forty years ago, and have been doing their beneficent work for half a century. Lydia E. Pinkham combined them in convenient form in her famous Vegetable Compound, which is to be found in the drug stores where every ailment woman may conveniently get it at small cost. It does the work!—Adv.

THE motor-oil "problem" is no problem at all, once you get this simple, primary fact pasted squarely in your hat, to wit:

No matter what car you drive, or when, or where, or how, there is one of the Big Four that is exactly right for that car under certain conditions.

Here's a group of four motor oils, refined and recommended by the oldest and largest manufacturer of lubricating oils in the world. They have proved up in years of actual road-use.

Under certain conditions, Atlantic Light may be the one oil you should use; under other circumstances, Atlantic Heavy; and so on. Atlantic Polarine is the famous year-round oil that flows freely at all temperatures.

Ask your garageman which Atlantic Motor Oil your car should get. He will put you straight on this lubrication-thing. Ask him for your free copy of the "Why" booklet, or write us.

A LESSON IN LOYALTY.

We are for the Country Where We were Born. We are for the Country Where We were Bred.
We are for the Country Where We were Reared. We are for the Country Where We were Born, Bred and Reared.

These were some of the legends on the banners carried by the Americans of Slavish birth or parentage who marched in the patriotic demonstration in the city Sunday afternoon.
These expressions of sentiment and that demonstration evidence upon the part of these people a loyalty to the land of their adoption which may well be emulated by some of the native-born who are, as yet, only lukewarm in their display of patriotic interest in their country's welfare at this time and strongly slow in taking their places in the ranks of those who are doing even more than a fair share in the "hard-earned" undertaking of "preparing for war."

It was an inspiring sight, to witness the parade of these sturdy patriots who marched with a firm step, military bearing and serious countenance, but with a just pride in the living proof they were giving of their attachment to the land of opportunity.
There was an earnest determination about these men, as they participated in this remarkable demonstration, which is characteristic of the Slovaks as a people. Their traits, as they have become known in the coke region, were very aptly described by Councilman Duggan in his address of welcome. "They have," he said, "always been found to be an unassuming, hardworking, honest, thrifty race of people such as can be depended upon in this or any other kind of a crisis."

The demonstration given by these people carries with it not only a lesson in the dependable loyalty of the Americans of foreign ancestry, but it reminds all who have the interests of our country at heart that in this crisis men are needed upon whom a sure reliance can be placed; not alone to perform the duties of a soldier, but also to perform the much more complex duties of civilians.
Many of our citizens can learn these important lessons from the humble, unassuming Slovaks who have not only enlisted in large numbers in the army, but are taking their places in the larger army of the workers and there quietly and faithfully going about their appointed tasks.

There have been times when the Slovaks have not appreciated or understood the meaning and purposes of American institutions. That they have not sooner come to a full knowledge of these things is largely because Americans have made no intelligent or well directed effort to understand these people, and partly because all Americans have not themselves appreciated, understood or known their own country.

Our Americans of foreign birth may yet open our own eyes to a new vision of our country's mission and our obligations to those who come to us from other lands. That may be one of the compensations of the war.

ONE WAY MEN MAY HELP.

The Courier has several times advertised to the fact that the ladies of the city are surpassing the men in the practical activities which have to do with our preparation for war. Not that the men have been slow to identify themselves with certain agencies, but rather that the ladies are responding in larger numbers and much more readily than the men.

This is no doubt due in part to the work of the Red Cross and the Navy League being of a character which appeals strongly to the sympathies, interests and natural inclinations of the mothers of men. In still larger part it is due to the fact that the women of the land are in truth more deeply moved by a desire "to do something" than are the men at this time.

The men are dispirited now, as well as at other times and under other circumstances, to watch and consider ways and means before becoming actively engaged in any line of endeavor. The women, with their keen intuition of the sex, need but to see the necessity of a thing being done than they go about doing it, wholeheartedly and earnestly. Some men have often to be shown how, and sometimes shamed, into doing things.
Others have a natural dislike to taking part with the women in an undertaking.

These facts account in a measure for a much larger number of women than men taking membership in the Red Cross and the Navy League.
Aside from the work of the committee on public safety, which has been limited to an comparatively few persons, there is no organization having a distinctive man's work. This is another reason why the women are outnumbering the men as workers in practical preparation in Connelville.

This ought not so to be. The Red Cross and the Navy League have just as urgent need for men as members as they have for women. Many citizens and towns no larger than Connelville have a Red Cross membership twice or three times as large as that of the Connelville chapter, and about equally divided between the sexes. To bring to the attention of our citizens, both men and women, the need of a larger membership, a systematic campaign is soon to be undertaken. Proceeding, that there will be a call to the men of the city to organize and conduct a Red Cross financial campaign during the week beginning with Red Cross Sunday, June 17.

This will provide an excellent opportunity for many men to participate in a most useful and practical way in providing an enlarged equipment for this great auxiliary of the government in its important, necessary and humane work of providing for the wants of the sick and wounded in our fighting forces on land and sea.

It asked to take part in this work,
do not refuse. Join hand in hand with the other men who will form the teams, and with the same patriotic earnestness the ladies are displaying in their team work in other departments of Red Cross work.

Chief of Police McCullough of Scottish has made a registration rule of his own, and it is one that will stand the test. The elegant smokers of the city will not do it. They will not be known as minors and come under the ban of the cigarette law.

Berlin has an ear close to the ground today to catch the return from registration.

You have about 20 to one chances of escaping draft after registration, but Uncle Sam has several times 20 chances of catching you if you don't register.

That commission sent to Russia has no summer picnic ahead of it.

Connellville coke men do not expect to make Connelville coke out of Ohio coal, but they have faith that it will make some of the same kind of matterial which has enabled them to secure Ohio coal.

For some unaccountable reason the automobile did not get its usual place on the front page of the Monday newspapers.

The boys will make it unanimous for Uncle Sam at the polling places today.

Don't some of you old gray heads wish your 121st birthday came today?

Today America makes a new Declaration of Independence.

Rippling Rhymes

THE FIGHTER.

Our Uncle Sam is slow to fight, warlike little he tender; he first makes sure that he is right, then busts his best response. So much in him is the scruple, he is so mild a fellow, that Bill and other bonehead chaps imagine he is yellow. "Well, sink his ships," said Kaiser Bill, "we'll drown his galleys and indies; he is too indolent to kill, or start in raising hades." But when our Uncle Sam does start, he starts with a bang, and his warships are like a flock of geese. He starts with a bang, and his warships are like a flock of geese. He starts with a bang, and his warships

COUNCIL SUMMONS OFFICIALS; WILL OUTLINE DUTIES

Mount Pleasant Solons to Tell Town Officers What Is Expected of Them.

WANT TARR ROAD FIXED

State Highway Commission Will be Asked That Highway Be Made Passable; Park Use Permitted for Public Meetings; Ida Stevenson Dies.

Special to The Courier. MOUNT PLEASANT, June 5.—At a regular meeting of council last evening residents of Oak street presented a petition asking for a sewer. N. A. Cort, representing the Patriotic League, asked council's permission to use the park to make speeches and for public meetings and asked that lights be placed there. This privilege was granted.

Following complaints from all over town, it was decided to notify Burgess John L. Shields, police officer, street commissioner, high constable and health officer to appear on next Monday night before council and be instructed just what council expects of them. The chief burgess reported 27 arrests, 23 paid fines amounting to $94, lockup fees $2, permits and licenses amounting to $28.50, making a total of $130.50.

Bids were opened for the Vine street sewer and this was let to Joe Regan of Moorwood street, the lowest bidder. A resolution was adopted to have the secretary write the state highway commission asking that the road between Mount Pleasant and Tarr be made passable. It was decided to set a grade on Center avenue. Joe Desert, representing the Bohemian society of this place, asked the council to take part in their Saturday evening celebration. The invitation was accepted.

Miss Ida Stevenson, aged 50 years, is dead at her Eagle street home. Funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home and interment will follow in the cemetery. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Mary Stevenson.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS
President American Society for Thrift

Those of the enemy. We possess tremendous dynamic power, and later on, if necessary, we will be able to outshine all other nations in military display. But now our most aggressive campaign against the enemy is being conducted right in our own homes. We are told by military experts and economists alike that almost everything depends on our national food production and our capacity to eliminate waste.

It so happens, therefore, that in this war women play just as important a part as men. An American housewife in her kitchen is as much a military unit as the soldier in the training camp, and her ability to accomplish concrete results is, for the time being, greater than his. Be a soldier in the trenches of your own home, therefore, and keep up a constant fight on the arch enemy of America, waste!

H. C. Hoover, chairman of the American Food board, tells us that to carry our allies over until the next harvest we must reduce our wheat consumption 30%. This means that every individual American must forego at least one loaf of bread a week. Mr. Hoover also makes the observation that 70% of American homes are places of thrift, economy, and a clean plate. In the remaining 30%, however, there must be radical changes if we are to fulfill our national duties during the coming months.

In the matter of food it must be borne in mind that almost all American over-eat. In one of the Atlantic Coast states recently an investigation disclosed that the average working man earning $39.45 a week paid $5.16, or 14.8%, for oranges and celery, which furnished only 1% of the food value of his food; on the other hand, he spent but $5.75 for cereal foods and sugar, which furnished him 25% of his food values.

Two of our cheapest foods from every standpoint are cornmeal and rice. Any ingenious housewife will be able to find many uses for them which will curtail the demand for bread, potatoes, and meat.

But it is in danger of perishing that is stewed, while vegetables which threaten to spoil should be boiled.

The Department of Agriculture tells us that in many homes potatoes are pecked in the kitchen. The 20% is wasted. Potatoes should not be pecked at all. In Germany a law provides that all potatoes should be cooked with the jackets on, and the same thing should be done in this country.

B. & O. RAILROAD BUYS $1,000,000 OF LIBERTY BONDS

Employees Will be Given Opportunity to Buy Them on Installment Plan.

The Liberty Loan had a further substantial addition in the Baltimore district through a subscription made today by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company for $1,000,000 of the government's bonds.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, arranged for this subscription in order to afford opportunity to the company's employees to do their part towards assisting the government in the present emergency by subscribing to the bonds and making payments therefor in monthly installments out of their future earnings, thus enabling those desiring to do so to purchase the bonds without the necessity of having the full amount at one time.

President Willard's communication which has been distributed along the line of road to reach all employees reads as follows:

To all officers and employees:— "Believing that everyone in the company's service will consider it not only a privilege but a patriotic duty to become the owner of a certain amount of the bonds about to be issued by the United States government, to aid in carrying on the war for democracy and human rights, and recognizing that some—perhaps many—of the employees may not have funds immediately available in the amount that they would desire to subscribe, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company has arranged to secure an allotment of the bonds for distribution among its employees upon the following basis:

"Upon request of any employee the Baltimore & Ohio will advance the whole or any part of the cost of the bond or bonds desired, at the same rate of interest which the bonds bear, to be repaid to the company in monthly installments by such employee from future earnings.

"The bonds will be issued on June 15, 1917, by the United States government in denominations of $50.00 and upwards, bearing interest at 3½% per annum, payable semi-annually on the 15th day of December and June. If another loan is made during the war bearing a higher rate of interest, the government promises that the holders of bonds of the present issue shall have the privilege of exchanging the same upon such terms and conditions as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, into an equal par amount of bonds bearing the higher rate of interest. Both principal and interest are exempt from all taxation except estate or inheritance taxes."

SALE OF LIBERTY BONDS PICKING UP IN CITY.

The sale of Liberty bonds in Connelville has picked up nicely during the last few days and during this week, which has been designated as "Liberty Loan Week," the subscriptions are expected to reach a high point.

The Second National bank has sold $87,000 worth of private parties. This is in addition to the bank's own subscription of $50,000.

At the Young Trust company, the exact amount of bonds sold has not been totaled up, owing to the fact that some are being sold on the bond club plan and some of the regular plan of payment as suggested by the government. It was stated at that bank, however, that few days go by that there are not half a dozen inquiries about the bonds, and these generally bring sales.

SEEK INSURANCE AGAINST ILLNESS

Movement Started to Protect Workers in State.

WANTS MATTER INVESTIGATED

Bill Presented for Appointment of a Commission to Look Into Feasibility of Question—Notes of Doings Among Lawmakers.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 5.—For the purpose of studying the possible workings of a system of health insurance in Pennsylvania, Representative Victor Arman, of Allegheny county, has introduced a bill calling for the appointment of a state commission to investigate the feasibility of a plan to meet the ordinary illnesses and disabilities of Pennsylvania workers as the compensation law aids them to bear the burdens of accidental injuries or deaths. They would investigate the amount of sickness among the workers of the state, the loss to the individuals and to the public through time lost during illness. The adequacy of the present methods of treatment and care of sickness would be studied, the extent to which mutual, fraternal or insurance companies aid employees to sustain the losses caused thereby and the lessened efficiency of workers caused by the avoidable ailments.

HON. WILLIAM C. SPROUL, Dean of Senate, Who Was Tendered a Big Dinner Recently.

But in addition to gathering complete data and information on the above points, the commission will also be charged with the duty of recommending ways and means for the better protection of employees from accidents as well, and in their report, which is to be made in 1919, they will be called upon to advise whether the time is ripe for Pennsylvania to adopt health insurance.

Bill Would Establish System.

Another bill in the legislature, however, aimed toward establishing such a system of compensation immediately, by insuring all wage-earners making less than $100 a month to the extent of two-thirds their wages, the compensation fund being obtained through a two-fifths contribution by both the employer and employee and one-fifth contribution from the state.

Many members of the medical profession favor health insurance as a means to the more scientific co-operation of the public and private agencies concerned with promoting the health of the worker. Whether the latter result be attained to any great extent is problematical, but the system has at least the merit of teaching the value of thrift to those whose improvidence and lack of foresight prevent their accumulation of any reserve fund to meet the workers' rainy day. But at the present stage of the legislation it looks as if the investigation would precede the establishment of a system of state insurance against sickness to take its place alongside the state's system of insurance against accidents.

BOTH BRANCHES PASS GAME CODE

Only Thing Remains Is Signature of Governor.

MOST PROGRESSIVE MEASURE

Amendments inserted That Restrict Bag Limits and Prevents Sale of Feathers and the Killing of Game Birds in December.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 5.—The new game code is now up to the governor for approval or disapproval. By a big majority the house last week concurred in the amendments made by the senate. As it was finally passed the new code is the best and most complete game law ever adopted for the commonwealth. It comprises within the one act all the important and essential points of some fifteen separate game laws that formerly crisscrossed the statute books of this state, and sets forth completely the methods which shall be used, the legal seasons, the bag limits, the restrictions on transportation and sale of game and all other points of interest to the hunter.

The amendments restricting the bag limits and preventing the sale of feathers and the killing of game birds in December were put in by the senate at the insistence of the organized sportsmen under the leadership of the Wild Life League of Pennsylvania, as were also the protective features.

Open Seasons

The new game code fixes the open season for game as follows:
Woodcock, quail, ruffed grouse, ring-necked pheasant, Hungarian quail, gray, black, red and fox squirrels, from October 20 to November 30.
Wild turkeys, November 15 to November 30.
Rabbits and hares, November 1 to December 15.
Deer, October 20 to December 15.
Raccoon, September 1 to December 31.
Grouse or grass plover, August 1 to November 30.
Ralls, coots, mud-bens, jacksnipe, blackbirds, and all shore birds except woodcock, September 1 to November 30.

All varieties of wild waterfowl, from September 15 to January 31.
The bag limits are fixed in the bill as follows:

Wild Turkey	Day Season	Limit
Deer	1	1
Which in all cases must be a male deer with horns not less than two inches above the hair.	1	1
Ruffed Grouse	4	24
Quail (Virginia Partridge)	4	25
Woodcock	10	20
Ring-neck Pheasant	4	10
Hungarian Quail	4	10
Squirrels (of all varieties combined)	4	20
Rabbits, cottontails	10	00
Hares	3	15
Deer	1	1

It will be noted that the new code gives the red squirrel a season, shortens the season for squirrels and game birds five days, lengthens the raccoon season and changes its dates and makes general reductions in the bag limits except for rabbits, hares, deer, bear and wild turkeys.

Strengthened Parrot Law.
The provision forbidding the ownership or sale of parrots, except under license from the game commission has been strengthened.

A camp limit of six deer has been established.
Taxidermists are placed under effective but reasonable control.

Game propagation is encouraged by provisions for licensing propagating plants.

All birds excepting game birds are absolutely protected, with the exception of the following: Blue-jay, English sparrow, European starling, kingfisher, buzzard, goshawk, red-chested hawk, Cooper's hawk, broad-winged hawk, marsh hawk, rough-legged hawk, duck hawk, pigeon hawk, barred owl, great gray owl, great horned owl, screech owl, hawk owl, raven, crow, blue heron, green heron, and night heron. Trade in the plumage or skins of all these birds as well as other birds is prohibited.

All persons who knowingly use game, or aids in the killing of game illegally, are liable for the same penalty as if he had done the killing.

The game commission is given full authority to remove any game birds or animals that prove destructive to property and the property owner may pursue and kill a bear that attacks

And love's high crown is the lost desire.

MANY SIOUX ARE READY TO SERVE IN THE WAR

Now in South Dakota's National Guard, Indians Await the Call to Arms.

Among the South Dakota volunteer troops and national guardsmen who may be sent to Europe are several Sioux Indians. Thus the war-whoops of the Sioux, among the most famous of Indian warriors, will, there is every indication, be heard in due time along the battle line in France.

In the Rapid City company of the national guard are more than a score of Sioux from the Pine Ridge and Rosebud reservations, and the Pierre company also has several. It has been demonstrated that when led by white men in whom they have full confidence the average Sioux Indian will fight as gallantly and persistently as any brave man.

Reports from the various Sioux reservations of South Dakota are to the effect that if the government wants their services the Sioux warriors stand ready to organize a full cavalry or infantry regiment and will gladly go to any point the government directs in order to perform their share of the national duty.

Some years ago the government made the experiment of recruiting Sioux Indians in the regular cavalry, and Troop L, Third cavalry, for several years was composed almost entirely of them.

RAISE FISH, REDFIELD SAYS.

Urges Ponds Be Utilized to Increase Food Supply.

"Why should not a farmer raise fish as well as chickens?" asks Secretary of Commerce Redfield in a statement urging farmers in every section of the United States to set aside a part of the farm for a pond.

"Given proper fresh water supply and a reasonable space for a pond—and this does not necessarily mean a very large space—fish are easy to raise, and an astonishing quantity may be had in two or three years," he says. "The fingerlings of the bass and sunfish families that are distributed to these ponds will attain a half pound weight in a year and the second year will be spawning and of greater size. It is not a lengthy or expensive process to stock a pond with fish, and the results are well worth the effort."

HE ONCE FOUGHT JOHN L.

Patsy Cardiff, Famous as Heavyweight, Dies in Oregon State Hospital.

Patsy (Patsy) Cardiff, once famous as a heavyweight prizefighter, died yesterday at the Oregon State hospital, aged fifty-three. In his fighting days Cardiff met nearly all of the contemporary heavyweights, including John L. Sullivan, with whom he fought a six round draw in Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 18, 1897.

Since his retirement Cardiff had lived in Portland until a few months ago, when he suffered a physical and mental breakdown and was brought to Salem for treatment. He leaves a widow and three daughters.

BELOW THE MOUNTAINS.

The Higher the Elevation the Lighter the Material Under It.

Researches of the United States coast and geodetic survey carried on in recent years have beyond doubt that mountains are not built up by the rigidity or strength of the earth's materials, but by the fact that the materials under them (in the outer portion of the earth) are lighter than normal.

The lighter the material under the mountain the lighter is the material under it. The principle is exactly the same as that which makes an iceberg float. A portion of the iceberg that is above water is held up by the large mass of ice—which has a density lower than that of water—in the submerged portion of the berg.

So, in the case of the mountain, the portion above the general level is held up by the lighter material under the mountain, which extends down to a depth of about sixty miles. Although the mountain is held up or floated by a lighter material under it, the bottom of the ocean is depressed because the material under it to a depth of about sixty miles below sea level is heavier than normal.

What may be considered as the normal condition is that which obtains in the large river valleys and under the coastal plains.

"The Girl Who Had No God"

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART
AUTHOR OF "K" "THE MAN IN LOWER TOWN" ETC.

CHAPTER VII.

Ward brought her a cup of coffee and stood by with satisfaction while she drank it. In his eyes there was a mixture of depression and joy. The parish house was gone, and this girl before him was to marry another man. But they would build another parish house, and who knew—

He drove her up the hill in his small car. At the top of a rise he stopped.

The Car Climbed Slowly.

the car and looked back. The night's devastation showed clearly, a black wound in the smiling heart of the valley.

Elinor watched him. "It means a great deal to you, doesn't it?"

"It's rather a face—of course we will build again, but there are things that could not be replaced. That isn't what troubles me. The fact is, I am afraid I'm responsible."

"I was there last night, alone. I have a bad habit, when I have a mental problem to worry out, of walking up and down a road and lighting one cigarette after another. I am reckless with matches."

"Then perhaps, after all, Walter had not done it!"

The car climbed slowly. Ward kept his eyes straight ahead. Elinor sat little shy glances at his profile.

"You said you had something to worry out?"

"I drew a long breath."

"I have had an offer to go to New York to a big church. It's rather a wonderful opportunity."

Elinor made no sign except to clutch her hands as they lay unglued in her lap.

"Then you will be leaving—us?"

"No," he said. "I shall not be leaving you."

"You like it here?"

"Very much." He turned and looked down at her. It was unwise. He realized that at once. So faint she looked, so softly, tenderly, reminded him. And because he knew that, after the night, he had not yet got control over himself, the merest head-clasp as she got out of the machine was all he dared. But at the top of the steps Elinor turned.

"You will never know just how sorry I am," she said, and went through her garden to the house.

From that Friday morning until the evening of the following day Elinor was quite alone.

Hour after hour she spent pacing the terrace, looking down into the valley. On Friday night, unable to sleep, she threw a negligee over her shoulders and went down to her garden. The village slept quietly, but there was a light in Ward's small window near the church. She remained on the terrace until the light was extinguished. At dinner that Saturday Borodinsky's empty place cast a gloom over the meal. Walter Huff came a little late. Under the ease of his greeting there was a touch of uneasiness as he met Elinor's eyes. When the servants left the room, Talbot leaned forward to Walter.

"Now tell us about it," he said.

Huff was frankly triumphant, but he still avoided Elinor's eyes.

"It's working out exactly as I knew it would," he explained. "Having once had a parish house they cannot do without it. The vestry carried only about a third enough insurance. And there's another point in our favor—the rector's away. He's got rheumatism. They are going to take up an additional purse to send him to Baden-Baden."

"When?"

"Tomorrow morning. And tomorrow being Sunday, the assistant rector, Elinor's friend, will have it in charge until Monday morning."

"I shall warn him," said Elinor suddenly.

There was silence for a moment. Talbot smiled. Lethbridge looked astounded. Huff, bending forward with his arms out before him on the table, confronted Elinor squarely.

"Thank it, is it?" he said.

"I asked you not to do what you have done. The church used it all the time. They played basketball there. Besides, my wish should mean something to you."

Huff shrugged his shoulders.

"If I had burned a timental full of people—"

"A man was nearly killed. He was on the ridge-pole of the church and they turned the full strength of the water on him. I saw it. I—almost faint."

"You saw it?"

"I was there," said Elinor quietly.

Huff rose angrily. "You were there? And who was it who almost fell off the roof? Your person, I suppose."

Talbot glanced at the boy. It was Lethbridge who took up the argument. He understood her position and sympathized, he said. The fire was a mistake. But now that it was done—

He spoke of Borodinsky's critical condition, of their safety that depended on his, and flinging his attitude to be unyielding, took refuge in her father's memory.

"If anything comes out, it will all come out," he reminded her. "It seems to me, Elinor, that you owe it to your father not to interfere. This isn't a new plan. Four or five years ago when the parish house was first built we talked it over here. And it isn't as though we mean to hurt this fellow Ward. It will be three to one; he'll make no resistance."

"Yes," she said. "Three to one. That is the way we fight. Oh, I'm one of you, I know that—but it sickens me, sometimes."

The men were astounded, frankly uncomfortable.

The conference got nowhere. Elinor acknowledged their duty to the parish, offered all her jewels, in fact, for his defense. But she stubbornly refused to countenance the attack on Mr. Ward. Huff lapsed into silence, his eyes on her. The other men found every argument met by silence, except for one passionate outburst.

"He is my friend," she cried. "I have never had any friends, except once, years ago, a girl. It was Borodinsky then who used my friendship for her. It was the Rutherford matter. Walter would not remember, but the rest of you—I tell you, I won't do this thing."

Talbot tried a new method. "It's a wealthy congregation," he explained. "It is not much for them, and it's money for us. If we let Borodinsky go up, and he thinks what he will about us, he can make it bad for all of us."

Elinor turned on him. "I don't care a rap for the congregation. Do you think he will let that money go without a struggle? The moment it goes into the offertory it ceases to be money and becomes a divine trust to him. He'll fight and someone will be killed."

It dawned even on Talbot after a time that her solitude was for none of them. When he realized it, at last, he sat back with folded arms and frowning brows. Here was mockery, for sure; old Elinor's daughter, reared on pure violence, and in love with a person—old Elinor's daughter and successor, defying the band in its hour of need, and quoting a divine trust, in extenuation!

In view of her attitude, there seemed to be nothing to do.

"Well, give it up, of course," said Lethbridge, after a pause.

There had never been any drinking in old Elinor's house. Only abstainers were ever taken into the band. But it was the custom of the two older men to remain at the table over their cigars, giving Walter and Elinor a half-hour together. That night, when Elinor rose from the table, Huff, although he rose with the others, made no move to follow her. She looked back from the doorway, a slim, almost childish figure, with beseeching eyes.

"You must all try to think kindly of me," she said wistfully. "I care for you as much as I ever did. You are all I have, you three. It is only that I—have been thinking."

For the first time since the organization of the band, there was quivering that night in old Elinor's paneled hallway. At the end of an hour Walter Huff flung out of the door, white with fury. He stumbled through the garden toward the garage, muttering as he went. In the rose alley he met Elinor.

"I was waiting for you," she said simply.

Huff stood before her, and the anger left his face.

"You're the one thing in all the world I felt sure of." His voice was heavy with despair.

"I've been thinking about Borodinsky."

"Elinor, how far have things gone between you and this man at St. Jude's?"

She recoiled.

"I hardly know him."

"You think about him."

She looked down into the valley. "I think of the things he stands for. It just seems to me that, when a man like that, and not a dreamer at all, but human and—kind, when he believes all that he does—"

"It was Ward on the ridge-pole, the one who nearly fell?"

"Yes."

"And you were frightened?"

"It made me sick."

Quite suddenly he crushed her to him. It was as if he meant to drive away this barrier between them by sheer force of his love for her. But, although she held up her face for his kiss, she released her as suddenly, without it.

"You're crazy about him," he said thickly. "I'm not blind. I'll get him for this!"

CHAPTER VIII.

Saturday evening it was the custom of the Bryants to entertain the rector at dinner.

Now, in his absence, it was the assistant rector who dined in the paneled Jacobean dining room of the Bryant house, swallowing much uneasiness and dejection as to church policy with his dinner.

Not that Ward was mild. But he had an easy way of listening to the advice of his various influential parishioners and then going ahead and doing as he liked. In essentials he always yielded. To him the church was so much bigger than its ritual.

That evening Mrs. Bryant had taken up the question of women in the choir.

"Frankly, Mr. Ward," she said, ignoring her fish, "I do not approve of it. It's the feminist movement, I tell you. Before long they'll want to be on the vestry."

Ward glanced up, half smiling. The pear-shaped pearl, which usually hung at his hostess's throat, was, naturally, not there. From the pearl to the parish house, from the parish house to Elinor—thus in two leaps of Ward's mind he was far from the subject in hand.

"As president of the Chancel society," said Mrs. Bryant, "as honorary president of the Women's guild, I protest against women in the choir."

Back to the choir with a jump came Ward's errand mind.

"I wonder," Ward reflected, "whether a matter of tradition and custom will prevent women from singing in the heavenly choir?"

Mrs. Bryant stabbed at her fish. But she had not finished. There were many things about Saint Jude's that did not please her. The burial of old Elinor Kingston had been one. She seized on that.

"A non-communicant," she snapped. "An infidel, an atheist! The daughter is living alone up there at this minute. It isn't respectable. It's a bad example to the girls in the village. The house is full of men all the time."

"That must be a mistake."

"It is quite true. Servants talk, you know. What can you expect? Brought out of the church, with no belief, and, of course, no moral instruction."

Ward bent forward over the table. "That is a very serious statement, Mrs. Bryant. His eyes were like steel. 'Of course you are not basing it merely on what you hear from servants?'"

Mrs. Bryant flushed, a purplish spot in the center of each sagging cheek.

"I do not gossip with the servants," she said, shortly. "It is common talk. And there are other things. Machines come and go from the house at queer hours of the night. The girl spends a great deal of money. Where does she get it? Where, for that matter, did old Elinor Kingston get it?"

Thus challenged, Ward had nothing to say.

After dinner he left early, but he did not go home. He went up the hill. As he strode on, he remembered many things. The girl was without the shelter of any belief, adrift and alone, and he had made no attempt to help her unbelief. Although it was after ten, the house was still lighted downstairs, and he went without hesitation into the garden.

Thus it happened that he saw Elinor in Huff's arms, saw him thrust her violently from him, and rush away across the flower-beds, leaving her there alone.

Ward remained in the shadows. To save his life he could not have spoken to Elinor then. Under his constrained exterior he was in the thrall of the fiercest jealousy. This little, fair-haired girl, to whom his God was no God, had taken a powerful hold on him.

Elinor, who slept little that night, saw the light in his window until it faded into the dawn.

Elinor went to the early communion the following day. The church was dark. There were hardly two dozen people scattered over the building. She sat far back and was heavily veiled. When the congregation knelt, she knelt. An old woman in the next pew gave her the prayer book open at the service. On her knees then, Elinor and Walter Huff, she voice echoing through the empty building.

The morning was warm and the windows open. The odor of burned wood from the parish house crept in.

"Thou shalt not steal," Ward read from the Decalogue, and the people said:

"Lord have mercy upon us and incline our hearts to keep this law."

"Thou shalt not steal."

In the palm of her left glove Elinor had the Bryant pear-shaped pearl.

Ward had not seen her. He went through the service reverently, with an impressiveness of voice and bearing that showed how real it was to him. And in his voice, reading, exhorting, commanding, there were tender notes that caught Elinor's breath in her throat.

When the service was over, she rose from her knees and dropped the Bryant pearl into the alms-box by the door. The congregation, small and scattered, was still kneeling. The doorway and the alms-box were in twilight.

Drawing down her veil, she went quickly out into the sunshine.

At the eleven o'clock service Ward announced the burning of the parish building.

"It is not my intention to make an appeal," he said simply. "The parish house was built to fill a great need; that need still exists. If our church is to be an element in the daily lives of the people of this town, we must have a meeting place for them. For the worship of our God, the church building is sufficient, but if religion is to be the thing it is to be, the broader religion of universal brotherhood, the church building is not enough."

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Seventy-eight thousand dollars was taken up in the collection at Saint Jude's that morning. Over fifty thousand was in checks, the rest was in cash.

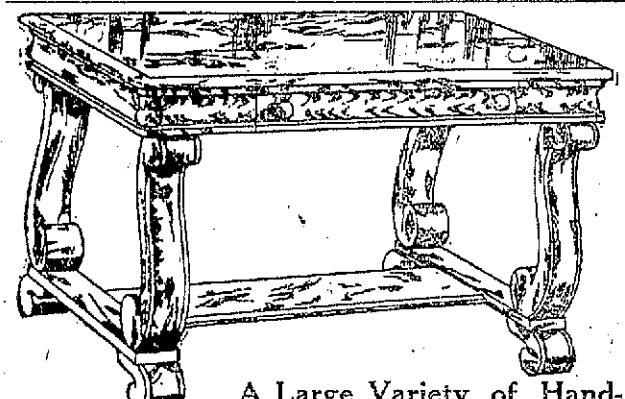

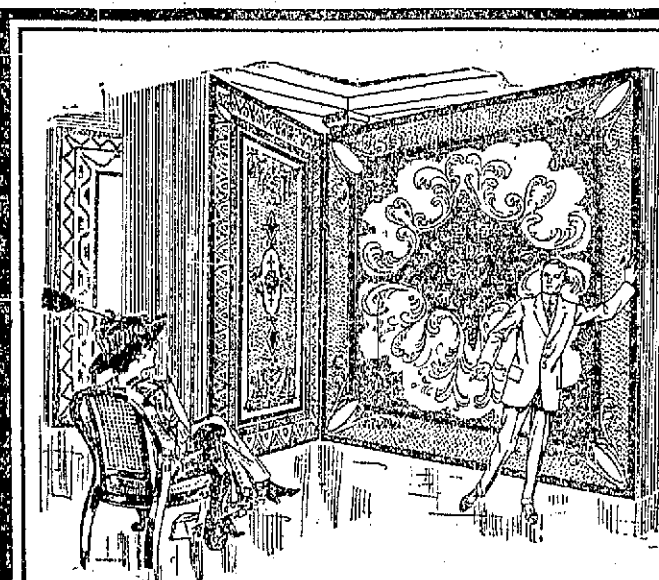

Walter Huff, sitting alone in the back of the church, had watched Ward intently through the service.

Unlike Elinor, Huff had been raised in a Presbyterian household. He had come to Jeer, to watch with his thick eyes the offertory piling into the silver plates. But the service told on him. Somewhere down in his violent young heart there crept a sense of shame. It was only when he looked at Ward that his eyes hardened.

SHINY NOSES IN PARIS.

New French Food Regulations Prohibit Use of Rice in Powder.

New regulations prohibiting the diverting of any foodstuffs for other use than rations is causing a tremendous stir among Paris women, because it prevents the manufacture of face powder from rice. Frenchwomen face an epoch of shiny noses, since it is prohibited to import luxuries and the existing supplies are tight. Many Frenchwomen already have started laying in supplies, and many shops are sold out and prices have been raised in such as have any for sale.

It is estimated that there are 20,000,000 women in France, and 10 percent of them use powder, averaging two grams daily. In 4,000,000 grams of rice face powder there are 8,000 kilograms of rice. A ration amounts to sixty grams, so the women waste 100,000 rations of rice daily.

Old Western Pitcher Returns.

The Des Moines club of the Western league after all has secured the return of Pitcher Paul Musser, the Indianapolis club having decided to send him back, not because of lack of class, but for the reason that there are eight pitchers on the Indianapolis team who have caught the eye of Manager Hendricks.

Rice Culture.
The culture of rice is alluded to in the Talmud, and there is evidence that it was grown in the valley of the Euphrates and in Syria before 400 B. C. It was taken into Persia from India and later into Spain by the Arabs. Thence its culture was introduced into Italy about 1468 A. D. The Spaniards are also responsible for its introduction into Peru and other sections of Spanish America during the early colonial period, but the exact date has not been definitely determined. The first introduction of rice culture in the Americas seems really to have been in Brazil.

Robust Old Gentleman: "I was born here."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"SLEEPING FIRES"—A five reel Famous Players drama in which Pauline Frederick, the celebrated star, has the leading role, that of Zelmie Bryce, a wife tied to a husband who bears that relation in name only, is being presented today. It is the story of the battle of a mother for the custody of her child, of a wife who has submitted to many indignities at the hands of the man whose name she bears. The picture has intense interest enhanced by the portrayal of Miss Frederick, and strength as well. Mrs. Bryce's husband and his secretary plan to influence her through her little son. A relentless nurse is hired to guard him and keep him away from his mother. The latter, desperate, strives to forget all in plunging desperately into the limited pleasures possible to her under the circumstances and also takes up social settlement work, meeting in this way a young lawyer, who gains her confidence. The husband still has the care of the child, and Mrs. Bryce unable to await the long decisions of the court, takes matters into her own hands and steals the boy. The way the husband hires detectives to steal him back again and the desperate mother follows him to the home she left, there to become involved in a terrible quarrel and accused of shooting her husband, makes a graphic tale that needs to be seen to be enjoyed. Thomas Morgan is seen as David Gray, the lawyer. Tomorrow Winifred Allen and Jack Devereaux will appear in "The Man Who Made Good," a five part Triangle production.

ARCADE THEATRE.

"Little Dolly Dimples," a miniature musical comedy as presented by Hauck's Sunshine Girls' company, at the Arcade last night, proved a riot of pleasing comedy, beautiful song numbers and exceptionally fine instrumental selections, with a pleasing plot running through the action of a clever act farce with music. Dainty Josephine Borg, who by the way is the product of "Old Fayette," is a clever little actress, with talent to spare, and was a real delight in her impersonation of a little waif. Clarence Cline, as "Hiram Skinner," is a real big time feature with his eccentric dancing and drill comedy. Tock Murdoch, as "Slim Pickens," the country sport, is one of the best dancers ever featured in Connellsville. The work of Irene Kennedy was decidedly clever and is deserving of special mention, as was the dancing specialty of Paul "Toots" Murdoch, who danced his way into the hearts of all lovers of eccentric wooden shoe dancing. Harmony is dispensed in large bunches by the Musical Kings, with their rendition of popular and classical selections. This act is composed of Hauck, Kiehn and Cline. The Saxophone Trio rendered some more than popular numbers which pleased immensely. For Wednesday and Thursday this company will present "Hiram in a Cabaret," with new songs, new dancing and new musical numbers.

SOISSON THEATRE.

"THE ARGYLE CASE"—A seven part drama featuring Robert Warwick. The story of "The Argyle Case" is one that is certain to hold the interest of the most hardened picture patron. It begins with the mystery as to the violent death of John Argyle, an eccentric millionaire. Suspicion falls on Argyle's son and later on his adopted daughter Mary, who is discovered to be the chief beneficiary under his will. Ascho Kayton, the celebrated private detective, is called in to the case and from the moment he takes hold things begin to happen. Also "The Mystery of the Double Cross, No. 5" featuring Mollie King.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"MAYBLOSSOM"—A five reel Pathé Gold Rooster drama, Pathé colored, featuring Pearl White, is the attraction today. The role played by Pearl White in this feature is entirely different from anything she has ever done before. Also a good comedy, "Tomorrow Valetka Suratt," "Empress of Fashion," is starred in the William Fox production, "She," Friday and Saturday Douglas Fairbanks appears in "In Again and Out Again." It is replete with typical Fairbanks humor and judging from early reports did fair to outshine any of his previous efforts.
